

Joe Greene Is 1972's Top Defensive Player

Four-Year Veteran Of Steelers Chosen By AP On Ballot

By GARY MIHOCS Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — General Joe Greene, not really a mean guy at all, has overcome the brashness of his youth and won recognition as The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Year in the National Football League.

It's a testimony to how far the 270-pound Pittsburgh Steeler tackle has come since he was named AP's top rookie defender four seasons ago.

Greene came to Pittsburgh from West Texas State as No. 1 draft pick, big as a water buffalo and quick as a water bug. He brought with him the nickname "Mean Joe" and a reputation among scouts, though not the general public, as the best college lineman in the country.

Greene was a spectacular player his first year, but the Steelers lost 13 straight after winning their opener and his frustration began to tell.

Thrown Out Of Game

In one game, he dealt quarterback Fran Tarkenton, then with the New York Giants, a crushing blow that the officials ruled was unwarranted. Joe was forced to spend the rest of the game on the bench and Pittsburgh lost 10-7.

"That's something you don't want to happen," he recalled recently. "You don't help your-team by getting thrown out, and you're not out there to maim anybody."

That's the side of Joe Greene that showed through this season when he led Pittsburgh to a 12-4 record and the first division title in its 40-year history.

He sacked quarterbacks 11 times and made 42 solo tackles, but more often than not he extended a helping hand to opponents on the ground, occasionally adding a friendly smile.

The Steeler season ended with a 21-17 loss to the Miami Dolphins last weekend in the American Football Conference title game.

The end came about six months after the hot days of summer camp when Greene had prophetically stated, "I have a feeling this is the year of the money."

Greene was on route by auto to his home in Duncanville, Tex., Thursday and was unavailable for comment about prospects for next season.

However, in a statement in the Steeler locker room following the loss to the Dolphins, Greene said:

"Miami was the better team out there today. But we'll get another chance. Then we'll see."

Greene had 32 of the 67 votes cast by a nationwide panel of pro football writers.

Closest to him were Nick Buoniconti of Miami with eight and Chris Hanburger of Washington with seven, followed by defensive tackle Bob Lilly of Dallas with four and Merlin Olsen of the Rams with three.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Bullets, at the bottom of the National Basketball Association in gross receipts, will sell sky boxes in their new arena for an annual fee of $25,000 to $35,000.

Forced out of Baltimore's downtown Civic Center by continuing huge losses, the Bullets will open their next season in Largo, Md.—about three miles east of the District of Columbia line.

Owner Abe Pollin unveiled a film on his Capital Center, now under construction, at a meeting Thursday of the Baltimore Sports Reporters Association.

"We're not moving, we're relocating," Pollin insisted. "The new arena will be very accessible to Baltimore fans. We have a loyal following in Baltimore, but unfortunately they are too few in number."

Pollin claimed that when he, Earl Foreman and Arnold Hef, all Washington area residents, purchased the Bullets eight years ago, they had no intentions of leaving Baltimore.

The feeling persisted, Pollin contended, even after he became sole owner in 1968.

Losses Are Noted "But we have not had the kind of success we hoped to have," he said. "I'm not in sports to make a fortune. I'm in it because I love it and it's important to me."

70 In Pittsburgh Group Visiting Mrs. Clemente

PITTSBURGH (AP)—About 70 persons, most members of the Pittsburgh Pirate organization, flew by chartered jet to Puerto Rico Thursday to visit the widow and three sons of Roberto Clemente.

Among them were Pirate President Dan Galbreath, Manager Bill Virdon, former manager Danny Murtaugh and many players, former players and some wives.

Rooney Goes Along Civic leaders also went along, as well as Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League, and Steeler running back Preston Pearson.

Immediately following their arrival at San Juan, they were to travel to the Clemente home to pay their respects to Clemente's widow, Vera, and her three sons: Roberto Jr., 8; Luis, 7; and Enrique, 4.

Clemente is believed to have been killed last Sunday while accompanying a plane load of relief supplies from Puerto Rico to earthquake victims in Nicaragua.

Headed Relief Clemente, who earned recognition as a baseball superstar in 18 seasons with the Pirates, headed Puerto Rico's quake relief efforts.

In his honor, President Nixon Wednesday donated a personal check for $1,000 to aid Nicaragua and to help fulfill Clemente's longtime dream of a sports camp for boys in Puerto Rico.

Cage Instruction For 4th, 5th Graders Slated At Braddock

An instructional basketball clinic for boys in the fourth and fifth grades is being conducted by the Cumberland Parks and Recreation Department every Saturday from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at Braddock Junior High School.

Fundamentals of the game will be taught by Alan Walters and Gary Hauger of Fort Hill along with Leslie Holly and Bill Armstrong of Allegany High.

George Schoenadel of Allegany is supervisor of the program with Gerald Groves of the city department.

Participating students are requested to bring tennis shoes, shorts and T-shirts. Locker space is available for changing clothes.
